BIG SKY HIGHLIGHTS

The 2009-10 Big Sky Women's Basketball season gets underway this weekend with all nine teams in action. Northern Colorado will be playing in its first-ever Preseason WNIT Tournament. The Bears open up tourney play against New Mexico in Albuquerque on Friday night in one of this week's key games. Northern Colorado returns three starters from last year's squad in Whitley Cox, Courtney Stoermer and Lizzie Cooper ... Weber State and Portland State kick off the season at home. The Vikings take on Pac 10 opponent Washington on Saturday afternoon in Portland, Ore. ... Portland State, which was picked No. 1 in the preseason poll for the first time in program history, returns three starters including two-time unanimous first team all-conference selection Claire Faucher ... The Wildcats host Dixie State on Friday before heading to Boise, Idaho for a meeting with the Broncos on Sunday. Weber State is one of just two teams that have all five starters back heading into the season; Eastern Washington is the other. The Eagles start the 2009-10 campaign on the road at Portland on Saturday, before returning home to host Oregon on Monday ... The Hornets begin their first year under new head coach Jamie Craighead at home. Sacramento State hosts Cal State Fullerton on Sunday ... The defending Big Sky Champion Montana faces two Mountain West teams this opening weekend. The Lady Griz, who return just two starters, are at Colorado State and Wyoming ... Montana State also hits the road to play at Cal State Bakersfield on Friday, before concluding the trip on Sunday against Pacific ... Northern Arizona and Idaho State head to California as well. The Lumberjacks play Pepperdine on Friday and UC Riverside on Sunday. The Bengals take on Saint Mary's and Cal of the Pac 10 Conference.

2009-10 PRESEASON POLL

PORTLAND STATE PICKED NO .1 IN BIG SKY PRESEASON POLLS

Portland State was picked, by the coaches and the media, to win the Big Sky title in 2009-10. It marks the first time the Vikings have been chosen to finish first in the preseason polls since joining the league in 1996-97. Portland State received seven first-place votes in the coaches poll for a total of 63 points. The media gave the Vikings 204 points and 15 first-place votes.

Sherri Murrell and the Vikings are coming off their best season in school history. Portland State played in its first-ever championship game after earning a No. 2 seed to the Big Sky Tournament with a 14-2 conference and a 23-10 overall mark. Although the Vikings didn't win the championship, they did earn their first postseason berth to the Women's National Invitational Tournament. Portland State defeated Portland in the first round.

Portland State returns 12 letterwinners this season, which is the most in the history of the program. Three starters will also be back for the Vikings, including first team all-conference honoree Claire Faucher and honorable-mention selection Kelli Valentine. Faucher, a senior guard, has been a unanimous selection to the conference's first team the past two years. She also ranked sixth in the nation in assists per game last year with 8.84. Portland State lost four time all-conference selection, and the 2008-09 Defensive Player of the Year Kelsey Kahle to graduation.

The reigning champion Montana came in second with 56 points and two first-place votes in the coaches poll, and 201 points and nine first-place nods in the media poll. The last time that Montana wasn't favored in the preseason was in 1999, when Cal State Northridge was picked first. Montana has at least tied for the top spot in the coaches poll the past nine years.

In 2008 -09, the Grizzlies won their 19th regular season and 14th overall tournament titles. Montana advanced to the NCAA Tournament for the 19th time. Robin Selvig, who has been at the head of the women's basketball program for 31 years, led his squad to a 28-5 overall and 15-1 conference record. The Grizzlies return just two starters and have to replace three-time honorable mention All-American, and two-time conference MVP Mandy Morales.

Montana State has been picked to finish third in both polls for the second straight year. The coaches gave the Bobcats 50 total points and the media gave them 162. Montana State finished the 2008-09 regular-season in third place after going 15-15 overall and 8-8 in league play. Tricia Binford enters her fifth year at the helm of the program. She returns three starters, including first team all-conference selection Erica Perry and the 2008-09 Freshman of the Year Katie Bussey.

Weber State is predicted to finish fourth in this year's coaches poll with 30 points, and sixth in the media poll with 90 points. The Wildcats are one of only two teams in the conference that will have all five starters back heading into the 2009-10 season.

The coaches gave Idaho State 29 points for fifth place, while the media chose the Bengals to finish in fourth with 111 points. Northern Colorado earned 28 points to claim fifth place in the coaches poll and 66 points for eighth place in the media poll.

Sacramento State was chosen to finish in fifth by the media with 108 points and eighth by the coaches with 22 points. The Hornets begin a new era in 2009-10, as former assistant coaches Jamie Craighead takes over the head coaching duties following the departure of Dan Muscatell in April.

Eastern Washington surpassed its predictions last year by jumping up two spots in both polls. The Eagles received 25 points from the coaches and 75 from the media to take seventh place. The Eagles also return all five starters from last year.

Northern Arizona rounded out the voting to finish in last place with 21 points from the coaches and 63 from the media.

The 2009-10 basketball season gets underway on November 13 and the conference season begins on December 31, 2009. The Big Sky Women's Basketball Tournament is slated for March 11-13 and will be hosted by the regular-season champion.

2009-10 NCAA WOMEN'S BASKETBALL
MAJOR RULE CHANGES

The rules changes below were approved by the Men's and Women's Basketball Rules Committees and by the Playing Rules Oversight Panel. Unless otherwise indicated, the rules changes will be implemented for the upcoming 2009-10 season.

Rule 1-15: The ball shall be spherical which is defined as a round body whose surface at all points is equidistant from the center except at the approved black rubber ribs. The ball's color shall be an approved PMS color of orange. The ball shall have a deeply pebbled leather or composite cover, have traditionally shaped eight panels defined by two channels. The width of the black rib shall not exceed ¼ inch.

Rationale: The rule on the basketball was clarified.

Rule 2-13.5: Permit officials to use the monitor to determine whether a flagrant foul has occurred. When it is determined that a flagrant foul did not occur but an intentional personal or a (men) contact technical foul or (women) player/substitute technical foul for dead ball contact did occur, those fouls shall be penalized accordingly. However, no other infractions may be penalized.

Rationale: Properly penalizes unsporting or egregious contact.

Rule 3-3.2: Assess a maximum of one administrative technical foul for any changes made to the scorebook, except when the changes are necessitated by obvious injury or illness, blood on the uniform or to replace a designated starter to shoot a technical-foul free throw after the 10-minute time limit prior to the start of the game and until the game has ended.

Rationale: To further discourage changes in the book after the 10-minute time limit and to clarify 10-2 Penalty, thus creating consistency in how the rule is applied.

Rule 3-5: The rule on uniforms was rewritten to allow more freedom of design while protecting the integrity of the number. In summary, an area designated as the Neutral Zone will house only the player's name and number. There will be no color or design restrictions outside the Neutral Zone. The game shorts must be a color similar to that of the Neutral Zone. (Note: See the revisions to this rule at the end of this document.)

Rationale: To update the uniform rule to allow more color and design possibilities.

Rule 6-2.2: After an initial jump ball or a jump ball for the start of an extra period(s) when possession is not gained by either team which would establish the alternating possession procedure, a jump ball shall take place between any two players.

Rationale: Having any two players involved in the jump ball creates an equitable way to establish the alternating possession procedure since possession was never gained by either team.

Rules Supplements: Add as a recommendation that a standard collegiate scorebook/score sheet be used for all NCAA basketball games.
